

LIQUID GEOGRAPHY

As a symbol of our gratitude to the many people who have helped us over the years, we will donate all the profits of Liquid Geography to the TJ Martell Foundation in its research to find a cure for cancer.

Liquid Geography is a project of Charles Bieler (the Rosé guru), Alberto Orte (the Iberian master), Norrel Robertson MW (the Scottish winemaker) and Patrick Mata (the liquid geographer). Liquid Geography is a Provence-style Rosé made from 20-25 year old vines located in the high elevation region of Bullas at 700-900m (2,296-2,953 ft) located in the Southeast of Spain where the Monastrell grape (aka Mourvèdre) originated. The vines are tended in clay and limestone soil. Average temperatures during the April and October growing season is 20.9°C (69.6°F) and annual rainfall is 226mm (8.9 in). Liquid Geography is 100% unoaked.

ABOUT "MUCHAS GRACIAS"

The Muchas Gracias logo represents that this wine supports a charitable cause.

The idea of Muchas Gracias was born from Alberto Orte and Patrick Mata, founders of Olé Imports. The philosophy behind this logo is the simple idea that giving is always more fulfilling than simply receiving.
